HOWGHONG, JANUARY 18TH, 1871

THE movement which is taking place with regard to Missionary enterprise; at and near Foochow, is worthy of some consideration. It appears, according to a Northern contemporary, that the natives intend paying their own pastors; and, in fact, are following out the traditionary policy among Chinese, of taking everything in band themselves as soon as they think they are independent of their foreign teachers. As they have learnt from us the way to conduct foreign business and to construct foreign vessels and arms, so made the post morten, a queer old medicine they consider that they can conduct Missionary enterprises independently of foreign rastors. This movement is regarded by the Daily News as one favourable to the Missionary cause. It is considered that by its board on which it had been laid to the cold means, Christianity will be freed from the floor, and the professor inserted a portion of a ejudices felt, by the official classes in China nasty looking powder in the mouth of deceaned, against a religion which is identified with dose was mixed with water before fleing ad the hills. Besides it appeared that interest was both ends; we may now fairly supplement what foreigners and suspected of being the basis | ministered, and when it was in the mouth the rarely charged even on promissory notes in of political intrigue. In a certain degree this view is sound, but there is reason to fear that the satisfactorviresult hoped for will not be realised. The immediate effect of the measure will probably be much what our contemporary foreshadows. The officials will be glad to find that Christianity is not necessarily associated with foreigners, and will in all likelihood be induced to extend more tolerance to it, on that account. This would of course be a great gain both to the sanguing. Christian cause and to our political relations if other circumstances did not arise to detract from its value. But it is to be feared that what Christianity in China will gain in eztension, it will lose in purity, by the change which is now proposed. Indeed, there is reason to apprehend that if the Chinese commence to conduct Missionary business in the manner which appears to be indicated, it may end in a second uprising of a travestie of Christianity such as was propted out an bail to appear, if called by the Taipings. Probably, before many years, Christianity in pative hands would decenerate into one of the King or doctrines so viumerous in China, and which are generally identified with political societies. If any one wishes ing to the British barque Evelyn Wood, were to form an idea of the manner in which the sentenced to two mouths imprisonment with subject of Christianity is treated in native hard labour, convicted of baving stolen. hands, he will do well to refer to a little book published by Dr. MARTIN, and called "A the Ying-ching shop in the Canton Buzant, short method with Chinese." fairly believed, had better be kept away from the Chinese altogether than presented to them in such a garb as this, and if such should be the result of the movement at presont being inaugurated in Foochaw, which seems by no mouns improbable, it is to be feared that that movement is scarcely a subject for congrutulation.

Further, if the teaching of Christianity be soriously taken up by the Chibeso themselver independently of Foreign Pasters, there is every reason to fear that it will be made the means of furthering the objects of political associations in the same way as was done by the Taipings. A travestic of Christianity which could be understood by the masses in China would, from its presumed connection with foreigners, be a powerful weapon in the hands of political societies, as in point of fact it proved to be in the bands of the Taipings -and the likelihood is that a semi-Chinesa for version of Christianity would before long be found to be the ritual of some secret organisation, and that thus the false impression as to the nature of the Christian religion which has already been widely spread by the Taipings would become still further diffused over the Empire.

Such are some of the dangers which stand u the way of the spread of Christianity Obina, if the teaching be left entirely in native bands. Anyone acquainted with the history of Taiping Christianity will admit that the fears above expressed are not without foundation; and such being the case, it is quite an open question whether the movement now taking place at Foochow is not calculated to lead to more harm than good, both in a religious and a political point of view.

It is perhaps hardly necessary to call attenion to the leature which is to be delivered this evening at the Union Chapel on the subject of Buddhism. The Buddhist religion, as that widely prevalent in China, is of apecial importance, and the Rev. Mr. Eitel is well known an one of the most elequent speakers in this place, so that the lecture will doubtless be of great interest to those whose attention is devoted to Ubiness mitters, and also to those who appreciate good speaking.

We are informed that hopes are entertained that the Great Northern Telegraph Company will be able to complete laying their cable between Hongwong and Shanghai in the course of March. The delay which bus occurred appears chiefly to have resulted from the impossibility of laying the wire except in weather which is comparalively only, as the Mossoon either way intereres with the operations. It is hoped, however, that this difficulty will be orercome, and the sying of the cable completed by the time above

EXTRAORDINARY WILL CASE. An interesting will case has been before the rish Court of Probate. The alleged testatrix, Miss Catherina Cheevers, of the county of Wesford, died a year ago, leaving property worth about £1,000. The will in question was dated on the day of her death, and was witnessed by Dr. Crenn, the medical attendant of Miss Observers, and by one of her servants. The doctor, however, stated that the lady was unconscious at the time, that he endeavoured to rouse her, but failed to do so, and that be then wrote her name, and putting a pen into her hand, made a mark with it. In consequence of this statement the will was not propounded by the executor, the Rev. Laurence Kir rin, a Roman Catholic clergyman; and the case came before the court on an application of the brother of the deceased for letters, of administration. The doctor's explanation of the conduct was that he had been requested by the Rev. Laurence Kirwin to witness the will, and that bolieving the revigentleman to have drawn t up, and knowing him to be a man of honour, he thought notwithstanding the unconscious state of the lady when her name was put to the will, that it was a legal document. The will which the clergynian drew up for Miss Obcevers disposed of almost the whole of her property for religious purposes—the solobration of masses, the decoration of churches, and the support of convents and Roman Catholic schools and institutions. 'A few legacies were given to the relatives, and £200 to the priest

IMPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITE THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionany, by the Rev. Prose Office, Hongkong.

MOR scope and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to soin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in ecience generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exer-cises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronuncuations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typo- 11 MANUFACTURERS AND DEALURS IN graphy displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the cite of body, thereby effecting a vast if 2124] 61 QUEEN'S BOAD. | Dec. 5 previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant' spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications, utilitarian purposes so complete, that a re- established since 1955, at Endicott's Lane, and forence to ite pages enables a person who that he has always a great quantity of Best understands English to communicate effectively COAL in store for Sale.
